

RE – L.O. To be able to retell The Parable of the Sower (Part 1)

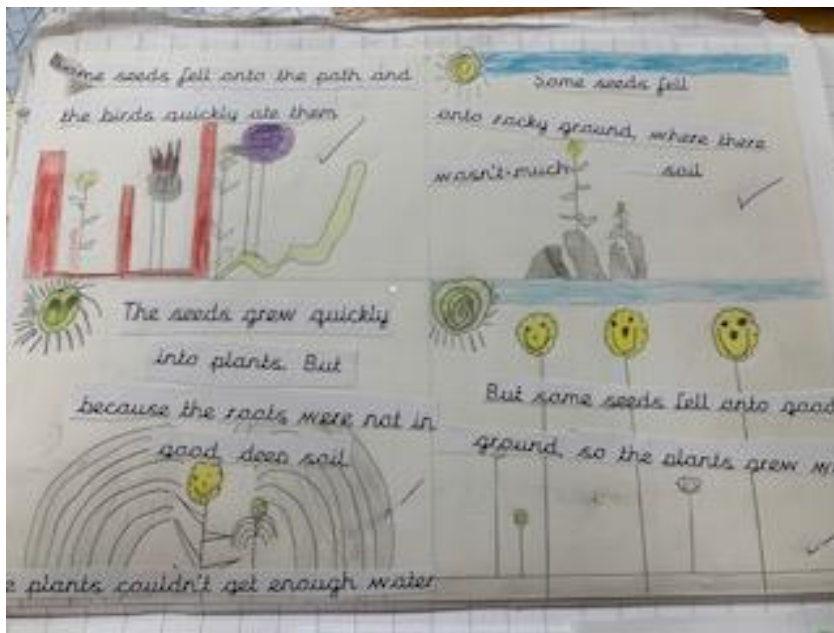

Monday 1st February 2021

The Parable of the Sower

A farmer sowed some seeds in his field. As he scattered the seeds, they fell in different areas of the field. Some seeds fell onto the path and the birds quickly ate them. Some seeds fell onto rocky ground, where there wasn't much soil. The seeds grew quickly into plants. But because the roots were not in good, deep soil, the plants couldn't get enough water. When the sun shone down they got too thirsty and the plants died. Some seeds fell into an area that was full of weeds. As the plants tried to grow, the weeds got in the way, and the plants died. But some seeds fell onto good ground, so the plants grew well. When they were grown, the farmer harvested lots of plants.

Task 1: Draw a picture to represent each of these. You could split your page up into 4 parts and draw each part in each section.

| | |
|--|---|
| Some seeds fell onto the path and the birds quickly ate them | Some seeds fell onto rocky ground, where there wasn't much soil. The seeds grew quickly into plants. But because the roots were not in good, deep soil, the plants couldn't get enough water. When the sun shone down they got too thirsty and the plants died. |
| Some seeds fell into an area that was full of weeds. As the plants tried to grow, the weeds got in the way, and the plants died. | But some seeds fell onto good ground, so the plants grew well. When they were grown, the farmer harvested lots of plants. |

Challenge:

Consider what the Parable of the Sower teaches us... make suggestions before we look at it in further detail next week.